(Special from United Press.) Rochester, Oct. 21.-Major Genera Elwell Steven Otis, U. S. A., retired, died at his home in Gates near Roches ter early to-day of heart trouble which had not become serious until two weeks ago. With him at the last were his wife, daughters, brother and the latter's wife. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made. General Otis was born in Maryland in March, 1838, but removed to Rochester at the age of two years. He was educated in the public schools here and graduated from the University of Rochester in 1858, following which he took a law course at Harvard. His had not become serious until two Rochester in 1858, following which he took a law course at Harvard. His career in law however, lasted but little more than a year for in 1862 he enlisted as captain of Company D, 140th New York Volunteers. He was made colonel after the battle of the Wilderness, when its leader, Colonel Rourke, was killed. He was wounded in 1864 at the battle of Chippins Farm but recovered in time to be made brigadier general of volunteers for conspicuous gallantry at Spottsville. He was mustered out in 1865 and returned to resume the practice of law. In January of the next year however, he entered the regular army as Lleutenant Colonel of the 22nd Infantry. He became Colonel in 1867 and Brigadier General in 1893. He was appointed Major General of Volunteers at the beginning of the war with Spain and two years later was made Major General in the regular army which rank he held until

INDUSTRIOUS DOG CATCHER NEEDS MUCH MORE MONEY

Dog Warden Thomas M. Kelly announced this morning that he has exceeded his appropriation by $227 and before the first of April expects to have exceeded it by $500. When the appropriation was made last April Kelly was given $900. This has been spent and in addition to the $237 which he has used in excess of his appropriation makes a total of $1,137 spent thus far. The year is about half over. City Auditor Keating said this morning the needed appropriation would probably reach $1,500 before the end of the year.

She wore a long veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. The mald of honor was gowned in pale pink silk, trimmed with sold and wore a short veil. A wedding breakfast followed immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is one of the most prominent figures in local society, and has been called one of Bridgeport's really handsome young ladies, her dark brunette beauty being the subject of great admiration. Her charm of manner and gracious personality has made her well liked. The groom though from out of town is well known in this city. He is the vice president of the P. C. Stuart Co. which has the contract for the large addition to the plant of the Warner Bros. Co.

'The couple have kept their honeymoon plans a secret, but it is known that they intend to be gone for some time. After their return they will take up their residence in Riverside, near the home of the groom's parents, who own a large estate, which has been in the family for many generations.

Judge Burpee Decides Against Commissioners

Judge Lucien F. Burpee in the Su-perior Court has rendered his decision in the case of the appeal taken from the County Commissioners decision in the transfer of the liquor license of the transfer of the liquor license of the liquor license of Paul Lengyel from 21 to 19 Ely avenue in Norwalk. This application was fought by the Ministers' Association of the two Norwalks. When Lengyel first applied for a license at 21 Ely street there was a small shed attached to the building where his saloon was located which was within 200 feet of the Hungarian church. This being inside the limit line there was nothing else for the Commissioners to do but deny the application. Lengvel had the shed removed, which placing him out-side the limit.

Judge Burpee, in his decision, states that as Mr. Lengyel has conducted a saloon for a number of years and in view of the fact that he immediately took off the shed, the transfer of the

WOMAN DABBLED IN STOCK MARKET

Handsome Society Dame Connected With Framingham Gang of Grafters

PREMIUMS ON TOWN NOTES

(Special from United Press.)
Framingham, Mass., Oct. 21.—That a handsome society woman of this town with a penchant for dabbling in stocks was connected with a gang of grafters whose steady bleeding of this town for years has only been exposed in the $300,000 deal which has shown Town Treasurer John Lombard in the role of a forger, is the latest develop-ment in the biggest municipal sensation Massachusetts has seen in years.

Besides the forged notes, for the utterance of which C. S. Cummings and E. A. Mead of the American Banking Company of Boston are under heavyball, it developed today that for more than 10 years all providing on town than 10 years all premiums on town notes have been appropriated by some-body other than the town and that thousands of dollars have thus been lost to the municipality. Investigation into Framingham's tangled web of finance is said to show that those on the inside knew positively at least as early as last January that Mead's methods were open to criticism and on the inside knew positively at least as early as last January that Mead's methods were open to criticism and the suspicion is growing that as the price of silence at least some of these shared in the plunder.

Just what role the woman who is being mentioned in the case played in the fleecing of the town is not fully known. It is known, however, that she has dabbled in stocks for years and is well known among the brokers of State street, Boston. It is conjectured that through her the gains from fraudulent notes issued against the town were used to play the market and that her efforts have probably netted the gang big money is suspected by her frequent boasts that when she was in the market it was always on the winning side. Citizens of Framingham today ridicule the plea made by the deposed town treasurer, Lombard, that all his difficulties came from issuing a spurious note to aid a friend and declare his years of irregular methods when fully probed will show him to have been but one of a gang which have made thousands on thousands by the use of the town's credit to get their capital.

MANUFACTURERS SHOULD BE TAXED AT FULL VALUE

Thus Says State Tax Commissioner Corbin to Convention of Assessors

TAX LAWS ARE EXPLAINED

State Tax Commissioner William I Corbin addressed about 35 assessor from various towns in Fairfield county and the city of New Haven. The com missioner is called the first live tax commissioner the state ever had. He answered questions from everyone and the assessors, especially those from the country went away knowing a great deal more about assessing property than they ever knew before.

deal more about assessing property than they ever knew before.

Among the things the commissioner said was "Manufacturing Corporations can afford to pay on a full valuation. They are the backbone of the state and they are able to pay on a full valuation. They create a demand for good roads, schools and hospitols. I think the manufacturers will pay on a full valuation if they are shown that the manufacturers in all towns are paying on a full valuation.

"Connecticut has got to have some other method of raising funds if it does not assess at a full valuation. A state tax might be levied that is more or less undesirable, but we must have something for Connecticut is running behind every year by more than a million dollars. We are spending more than we take in and it is up to you assessors to help the state right this condition.

"In some districts they are dividing up a town in sections and one man is mutting values upon property. That up a town in sections and one man is putting values upon property. That should be stopped and in no instance should less than two men place a value upon property.

"There are many people who have large amounts of personal property in this state and who claim to be ex empt because they pay taxes in New York state. The New York law states that personal property outside of the state is not taxible in the state. If this property is in this state for 7 months in any one year it is taxaxble

"They used to allow 2 acres of farm "They used to allow 2 acres of farm land with every house no matter where it was located. A house lot should be the property the owner devotes to that particular purpose and nothing else.

"You assessors of the cities as well of the towns want to stop the lumping of lands in the assessing of property, for there are many kinds of land.

"The assessors are the most import-erty, for there are many kinds of land.

"The assessors are the most important officials of any town. The trouble in many towns is that the assessors are not given time enough to work and then they are asked to hurry through. Farm property located alongside of land that is being cut into building lots is increased in price by the proximity of the other land and even though it is not arranged in lots its value should compare favorably with the land that is cut up.

"All the towns used to keep down their list to avoid paying the state tax and the result was a great inequality. We are keeping a record of all towns. I have in mind one town where the assessors stated that the property was valued at 100 per cent. The town clerk of that town sent me a letter saying he was asham-

The "Young-men's Shop offers splendid suits and overcoats at substantial savings.

The Boys' Shop has had its natural expansion. Opened a brief year ago as an exclusive spot where boys could be properly outfitted with clothing at a fair cost, it has grown into a young-men's shop as well. From now on, we shall be ready to supply young men with suits and overcoats of snappy correct style—and to do it for less than the usual cost of such clothes, We plan to sell young men better clothes than they have been able to get for the price. We shall do this in exactly the same way as we have done that very thing for boys; by being content with a fair profit. We shall be sure of every suit of clothes that goes out of the Youngmen's Shop. It will be well-tailored, will be good of fit, will be serviceable;—we shall stand back of every one. We are ready now. The newest fabrics are ready; fancy cassimeres in rich hues of green, in blue with narrow green stripe, in new grayish tones. Styles are those that young men will like; are set off by effective decoration or are as plain as anybody could wish,

Measured by all clothing standards these suits are worth $12 to $18 or more. Prices are Overcoats that strike Fashion's latest note. Fancy mixtures in the new long motor style and in conservative styles with plain contrasting collar. Prices are $7 to $13.50; values are much higher.

Separate trousers from a maker who excels in cutting trousers so they fit nicely. Fancy striped worsteds and plain blue or black serge. $2 to $4.

Sample coats for little girls; tempting prices.

Don't remember a time when there was such a chance as this to get a little girl's coat of such fineness and individuality at such a small price. Can't even guess when there's be such another.

We bought all the sample coats a little-folks' tailor had on hand. It was a motley, but a nice collection. In it are fur coats and cloth, coats of white bearskin and of colored broadcloth, coats of red chinchilla and plain lightweight fabric with quilted lining,-all sorts of coats; but every one a new style of this season.

There may be two or three in the lot that would sell regularly at $3.75, but only two or three. The rest are worth from $5 up to a price that would be almost unbe-
